News release: No vaccine mandate for Vancouver School District staff

(Vancouver, BC) – After careful consideration, the Vancouver School Board will not mandate COVID-19 vaccines for staff.

“As a Board, we continue to be very committed to ensuring schools are safe and inclusive places to learn and work,” says Carmen Cho, Vancouver School Board Chair. “We are pleased that approximately 90 per cent of eligible youth and adults in the Vancouver Coastal Health region are vaccinated, and we continue to strongly encourage anyone who has yet to be vaccinated to make an appointment and do their part to keep everyone healthy and safe.”

The Board considered a full range of possible implications a vaccine mandate could have on the delivery of education and educational programs. In doing so, the Board reviewed the K-12 Sector Guidelines for Vaccination Policies (<http://www2.gov.bc.ca/assets/gov/education/kindergarten-to-grade-12/support/vaccine-policy-guideline.pdf>), developed by the Ministry of Education, BC Public School Employers' Association and the provincial advisory group.

In making this decision, the Board carefully considered all implications of a vaccine mandate for staff, including information and guidance of public health officials.

SAFE DRINKING WATER MONITORING PROGRAM

Charlene Campbell-Wood

Drinking Water Quality

British Columbia's drinking water at the tap is generally very safe. However, outbreaks of water-borne disease caused by pathogens (e.g., bacteria, protozoa and viruses) and chemicals occur from time to time. Pathogens usually get into drinking water supplies when lakes or streams, or community water-supply pipes or storage reservoirs, are contaminated by animal wastes or human sewage.

Water suppliers are responsible for delivering safe drinking water that meets the requirements of the Drinking Water Protection Act and Drinking Water Protection Regulation, as well as the conditions set on their operating permits. These requirements include treating the water, if necessary, and ensuring water quality through monitoring. Water suppliers must notify the public when there is a potential or actual problem.

The health authorities' drinking water officers are responsible for providing the oversight to ensure compliance and drinking water safety. Environmental health officers, public health engineers and medical health officers are also involved in this work.

Water suppliers should contact their local drinking water officer and public health engineer before building or altering a drinking water supply system to determine if a construction permit is required. They must also ensure new drinking water systems have the proper certificates and approvals from other government ministries.

Drinking water officers are mandated to apply and enforce the Drinking Water Protection Act and Drinking Water Protection Regulation. They monitor the operations of drinking water systems and act on any notices of threats to drinking water quality. Drinking water officers are responsible for issuing operating permits, and will work with water suppliers to help them achieve compliance with the legislation and the conditions on their permits.

The health authorities use progressive enforcement to ensure compliance with the Drinking Water Protection Act and the requirement for the provision of potable drinking water. Part of this progressive enforcement involves requiring planning information from the water supplier that demonstrates, using critical time frames, that infrastructure and treatment upgrades are being addressed responsibly.

For example, a water supplier can be required to have a cross-connection control program if so directed by a drinking water officer, or as part of a system assessment and response plan including time frames.

Water suppliers are required to have the water from their systems analyzed for the presence of microbiological pathogens and other indicator organisms by a laboratory approved by the Provincial Health Officer. They must make the results of drinking water quality tests available in an annual report.

For more information, see Shared Roles and Responsibilities in Protecting B.C. Drinking Water.

- Competition ends on December 1st at 12:00am Midnight, a winner will be announced on December 5th!
- If you have any questions regarding the contest or submission, contact us via admin@nervproductions.com

About the Doc: In beautiful British Columbia, Canada, follow an ensemble cast ranging from a former government worker turned activist to a boat captain with an indigenous family history long forgotten, as they search for a way to save what's left of the Fraser Estuary. This documentary feature uses the estuary as a case study proving a lack of environmental stewardship as a result of indigenous suppression.

Fine Print: No age restriction. No purchase necessary. All participants must identify as members of the xʷməθkʷəy̓əm (Musqueam) First Nation. NERV Productions Inc. will deliver to the grand prize winner a cheque valued at $1000.
