Please join us to hear from Amy Parent (Nisga'a) about an on-going community led research project focusing on the philosophy and educational practices of the Nisga'a carving tradition as a form of knowledge production. In this presentation, Amy will share the story of the research and collective strategies that have supported the Nisga'a Nation's rematriation (formerly referred to as repatriation) process for the Ni'isjoohl memorial pole from the National Museums of Scotland. She will also briefly detail how we enacted a Sayt-k'ilim-goot (one mind, one heart, one Nation) process to complete the carving and raising of a new house pole with the House of Laay on February 24, 2023 through collaboration with our hereditary leadership and the Laxgalt'sap Village government in the Nisga'a Nation.

Presenter: Amy Parent (Nisga'a) is the Canada Research Chair, Indigenous Education and Governance at Simon Fraser University. She belongs to the Ganada (frog) clan from the village of Laxgalt'sap.

When someone is about to use, especially alone, they can open the app and record the type of substance they are using and confirm their location. The app will hold this information, and a timer is set which can be paused or extended by the app user at any time.

As the timer ends, the app will sound an alarm, flash a light, and vibrate. The user must hit a button to stop the alarm and indicate they are fine. If they are unable to stop the alarm, a text-to-voice call will go straight to 9-1-1. This alerts emergency medical dispatchers
